

TRAJECTORIES THROUGH MIXED REALITY PERFORMANCE

A LECTURE BY:

STEVE BENFORD & MATT ADAMS

MONDAY 23RD NOVEMBER 2009, 4PM - 6PM

ROOM 137A, RICHARD HOGGART BUILDING, GOLDSMITHS

Steve Benford is Professor of Collaborative Computing in the Mixed Reality Laboratory at Nottingham where he explores novel interaction and communication technologies for rich and dynamic social interaction, focusing on the potential of ubiquitous computing to enhance the creative industries.

Matt Adams co-founded Blast Theory in 1991, an artists' group renowned for its multidisciplinary approach pioneering the use of new technologies within performance contexts. Works such as Desert Rain, Can You See Me Now? and Uncle Roy All Around You have been nominated for four Interactive Arts BAFTAs and won the Golden Nica at Prix Ars Electronica.